HAD POLICY.

How People are Rapidly Driven From Tahoe.

The APPEAL has had several occasions to mention the way in which Lake Tahoe is being ruined as a Summer resort and will continue to publish the facts in the case until the managers of the various resorts and the steamboat captains awake to the fact that a decent treatment of the public is the best way in the long run.

The San Francisco Post has the following:

There is considerable complaint among people who have returned from a vacation to Lake Tahoe about the manner in which they were treated by Todman, who runs a steamer on the Lake. A prominent business man to-day said:

"I wish to goodness the Post would expose the way in which the people are imposed upon by Todman."

I will give you an illustration of my own, which will satisfy you that I have a good cause to kick.

I have been staying up at Gilmore Springs, which is a little distance from "Yank's," where I learned that six gentlemen from the East were coming to see me.

In this was a prominent New York book publisher and some other wealthy Eastern gentlemen.

I bought a return trip ticket at "Yank's" in the Tod Goodwin for $3, got over to Lake Tahoe and took the stage for Truckee.

Only one stage meets the passengers at Truckee, and it is customary for the gentlemen of the party to let the ladies and their escorts ride in the first stage.

It is always customary for the Tod Goodwin to await the arrival of the second stage at Tahoe, so that if any are passengers for "Yank's" they can be taken across.

Now, seven of us wanted to get across to "Yank's" that day, but despite this knowledge he started off without us.

The second stage was only thirty minutes after the first stage, and he ought to have waited.

When we got to the hotel and found the boat gone we were, as you can imagine, pretty wrathful, and more so because the hotel was full and we could get no accommodation.

After we had sworn till we were black in the face, Todman came to us with a grin and said that we could charter the Mamie for $30.

I told Todman that I had a return trip ticket and that it should be good on the trip, when he said, "No."

Now I call that a down-right swindle. Todman knew that we were to have gone across to "Yank's" on that boat, and he purposely started without us, and in addition to that he refused to accept a return trip ticket.

This is one of Todman's many tricks, and I think that if your paper went after him and exposed his petty methods to increase his exchequer at the risk of being called dishonest, you would teach him a lesson by keeping people away from his reach."

The worst of the above is that no one who reads it will for a moment doubt the truth of it.

Last year the citizens of Carson talked of building a boat of their own so that they would not be forced to stop over night at Tahoe City where they did not care to.

The Grand Central Hotel is a very good house well kept and all that but if one is compelled to stop there when they are bound for the Bellevue, McKinneys, Emerald Bay or "Yank's," he considers being compelled to stay there an imposition.

Capt. Todman promised in the Spring to run two boats twice a day around the Lake so that people from this side could go any place they pleased the same day.

He is now running the same old way so as to keep people at the Grand Central over night.

The result is, scores of people from Virginia City and Carson who were going to the Lake recently decided to give it the go-by and go to Hope Valley.

There is no use depending any longer on Todman running his boat to accommodate anybody but the Grand Central. Next season a rival boat will be put on the Lake and will be built with Virginia and Carson capital.

JOY AT BELLEVILLE.

The Town Secures Ice for the First Time this Summer.

A few days ago a Chinaman was killed in a brawl near Keeler, and his countrymen at great expense packed his body in ice and shipped it to San Francisco, where a fine, large funeral was to be held.

When the train reached Belleville it was delayed by a broken rail for five hours. Some of the boys discovered that the celestial was packed in ice, and thought it a shame that so much luxury should be indulged in by a dead Chinaman. They accordingly snaked out 200 pounds of ice, and the town became wild with excitement.

They gathered up some old cows and made ten gallons of ice cream, while they reveled all night in mint juleps, ice-cold lemonade and claret punches that almost froze the drinkers' teeth.

So much excitement had not been known in Belleville for many years.

The men who froze to the ice retailed it at 25 cents a pound.

When the body struck Truckee last night it was so badly decomposed that it derailed a freight train.

Hard Characters.

For the past two weeks the people on the different streets, especially the people on the West side of Main street, have noticed tough looking characters prowling around their houses during the day and night. About two weeks ago Theresa Shrieves found a man in her parlor, and being alone in the house ran to the rear. She at that time was so frightened that she could not give a good description of the man. A few days afterward she heard the dog bark and went to learn the cause. She found the same man trying to come up the back stairs. She asked what he wanted and he said it was none of her business. She told him she knew him and that he had been there before and had better keep away. He told her to look out for he was apt to come again. They must be making arrangements for a big haul, as they have been noticed by Charlie Bray and others, prowling about. They tried to rob Mrs. Benton, and last Sunday night at about 10 o'clock they followed Max Aronson on his way home. The night watchmen ought to keep a good look out on the back streets for a while, and all tough looking characters should be ordered out of town.
